caused by concanavalin A (ConA) in rat liver. After administration of diltiazem (30 mg/kg, s.c.) for 3 days, ConA (2 mg/kg, i.p.) was injected into male Sprague-Dawley rats. ConA caused complete hepatic cell death and the absence of detoxifying enzyme systems, such as glutathione peroxidase and glutathione transferase. In rats pretreated with diltiazem, ConA toxicity was completely
