agent simulator. Cisco 7200 switch with SNMP agent simulator. Cisco 2621 router with SNMP agent simulator. As you see, SNMP Agent Simulator can run on any platform that has Java Virtual Machine installed. In order to test SNMP based applications, you only need to load the SNMP agents. After the SNMP agent is loaded, you can configure the desired SNMP parameters. Then, you can save that simulation and recall it to check the changes. After that you can record the data and replay it. You can even edit the data files to bring the simulation back to the desired status. Also, you can simulate without bringing in the hardware devices. For this to work, you only need the Java Virtual Machine for the platform you want to test.
