In this instance, after trying to download and mount WinPE to your USB drive via the method mentioned above, the "any" option was grayed out, so I'd assume that the WinPE file wasn't corrupted. Still, I'd defrag (or at least defrag) your hard drive again in hopes of fixing the partition you had to shrink and accidentally losing your data. I would think though that you may have already done so. A: You may have to get a WinPE ISO from another computer, if the WinPE ISO you have may be corrupted. The following method may work, however. You will need the WinPE boot.wim (PE WPENOIM) and the WinPE image (MyWinPE.cab) Download a WinPE ISO from one of the links at the bottom of this answer. Copy it to a USB drive of your choosing (eg., my E:) Create a new partition on your drive (eg., E:/ using "Disk Management" in "Computer Management") and format it to the WinPE ISO format (ie., NTFS) Mount the WinPE ISO to the E:/ partition. You should now be able to boot the ISO. Q: Axios PUT with dynamic params changes the schema I'm trying to update a REST API endpoint by changing its "params" attribute. However, the Axios request changes the schema used for the results. I get a "TypeError: Cannot read property 'get' of undefined". The schema is not undefined, but it doesn't have getter methods defined. It's wrapped with a schema and used as a model. Form submission with axios.put export function updateCourse(course) { const courseId = course.id const courseTypeId = course.type_id const host = course.host return axios.put(`${ROOT_URL}/course/${courseId}`, course, { headers: { 'Content-Type': 'application/json'}}
