Redescription of Dolichopodus cochlearis (Norman, 1891), comb. nov. (Crustacea: Decapoda: Brachyura: Paguridae) from southern Arabian Gulf. The species of pagurid crab Dolichopodus was revised taxonomically based on morphological and molecular study. Here, we redescribe D. cochlearis Norman, 1891 based on the original description and additional material collected from the southern Arabian Gulf, Persian Gulf and Oman. Morphological and molecular data allowed us to redefine D. cochlearis as a species with typical morphology of pagurid crabs. The new diagnosis includes distinctive morphological features on the pleon, carapace, pleon, and shell

Factors that affect the incidence of postoperative wound infection after cervical total disc replacement. Although many studies have analyzed the incidence of postoperative wound infection after cervical total disc replacement (CTDR), the results are not entirely consistent. In this study, we performed a meta-analysis of the incidence of postoperative wound infection after CTDR for the treatment of degenerative cervical myelopathy. PubMed, Embase, and Cochrane library were searched for articles evaluating the incidence of postoperative wound infection after CT
