With the playoffs set to begin and the regular season is wrapping up, the big question on many fans' minds is which team will be playing for the right to go to the Super Bowl. With the Falcons' 12-4 season, Atlanta is becoming an easy candidate for the NFC's top spot. However, the Eagles and Saints have been gaining ground in recent weeks and have been making some impressive strides in the season to make themselves Super Bowl contenders. New Orleans has to be considered as the team to beat in the NFC and they've been peaking at just the right time. Andy Reid's team has clinched the NFC South and has played some of their best football of the season in the second half. The Saints are one win away from the NFC championship and they've found a key to beating teams like the Seahawks and Falcons — their defense. The Saints have held opposing offenses under 20 points in four of their last five games and have allowed just four touchdowns to the past three quarterbacks who have faced them. That's impressive company to be keeping. With every regular season game, you're always looking to see who is going to be the team that goes to the Super Bowl. Who do you think are going to be the NFC team in Super Bowl XLIX?New Forest Hunt is the traditional name of an annual fox hunt held in England, mostly in the New Forest, Hampshire.
