Seeing Stars A small beauty spot that we were treated to in the middle of nowhere near my parents home in Braemar. This is where we spent Easter. It is so nice to get away for the day. I feel like we are the only people here. No-one can see us. It's so tranquil. I took this while strolling with my parents. My parents loved it here, I think it is very peaceful. This is on the last day of our holiday. It was a cold and windy day. We explored a little further. Stopping a little while later, to take some photos. The sun is reflecting off the boats whilst I wait for them to go by. I love photographing reflections of the sky on to water. They are mesmerising to watch as they are happening in front of you. It was our last day here and we didn't manage to fit in as many photos as I would have liked, as it was freezing cold. We had a McDonald's while waiting for the boat to arrive. We passed by this beautiful snowy Loch Lomond, as we made our way back home. I love snow! We stayed in a town called Tarbet, which is the perfect place to visit when you are in the West of Scotland. After leaving this wild place, we went to Forres, a place that is filled with things from the last century. You will see a lot of visitors coming through these 79a2804d6b
